

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A plasma generation system that is capable of generating uniform high-density plasma includes a microwave generator for generating microwaves, a refractor for altering a direction of propagation of the microwaves, and an electromagnetic unit for applying a magnetic field to plasma formed by the microwaves to generate electron cyclotron resonance (ECR).